Provide thank-you Ask learn need to format a Move on Explain to	Begin the lesson by asking learners if they have ever received a note, brochure, or flyer that caught their attention. Discuss their experiences and what made those communications effective. Divide the whiteboard or chalkboard into three sections: Notes, Brochures, and Flyers. Start with the Notes section: Explain that notes are concise messages intended for personal or professional communication. Discuss the purpose and characteristics of effective notes, such as clarity, brevity, and a friendly tone. Provide examples of different types of notes, such as chank-you notes, reminder notes, and informal messages. Ask learners to brainstorm situations where they might need to compose a note and discuss the appropriate format and tone for each situation. Move on to the Brochures section: Explain that brochures are informative documents designed to promote a product, service, or event.					ord cards, tence cards, er cards, dwriting on anila card

PHASE 2: NEW LEARNING	Engage le statemen questions conversa Write th coming to Explain the end of seek constatement statement the questions difference of the example of the exam	Share performance indicators with learners and introduce the lesson. Engage learners in a discussion about questions and statements in English. Ask them to give examples of questions and statements they use in their daily conversations. Write the following sentence on the board: "You're coming to the party, aren't you?" Explain that a question tag is a short phrase added to the end of a statement to turn it into a question or to seek confirmation or agreement. Break down the sentence into two parts: the statement and the question tag. Explain that the statement expresses an assumption or belief, while the question tag seeks confirmation or agreement. Highlight that in question tags, the subject and auxiliary verb in the statement are usually inverted or reversed in the question tag. Give examples of positive and negative question tags using different auxiliary verbs and tenses. For example: Positive statement: "She is a doctor." Positive question tag: "She is a doctor, isn't she?" Negative question tag: "She is a doctor, isn't she?" Negative question tag: "You don't like coffee." Negative statement: "You don't like coffee, do you?" Positive statement: "They have finished their homework."

	Explain that when the statement is negative, the question tag is usually positive, and vice versa.
	Reinforce the use of the auxiliary verb in the question tag.
	Encourage learners to practice forming question tags using different statements and question tags. Provide prompts or allow them to create their own examples.
	Ask for volunteers to share their examples and provide feedback on the correctness and appropriateness of the question tags.
	Assessment
	I. He's coming to the party, isn't he?
	2. You don't like chocolate, do you?
	3. She hasn't finished her homework yet, has she?
	4. They won't be late, will they?
	5. We should go for a walk, shouldn't we?
PHASE 3:	Have learners talk about their experiences during the REFLECTION	lesson, what they have learnt, and questions they might still have.
	Teacher leads a discussion to provide responses to learners' questions.
